ANDREWS MADE DRY LAW CZAR BY PRESIDENT

Leave Him Alone, Is Tip to Politicians.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Lincoln, Mass., July 24.—(Special.)—President Coolidge has given Andrews, a free hand to organize a prohibition enforcement force without political interference and to enforce the Volstead act to the limit of federal jurisdiction.

The President made this known officially today at White House in connection with reports that Gen. Andrews is coming here to consult the executive or had asked for an appointment for that purpose. The President pronounced these reports untrue. Gen. Andrews is not coming here because there is no reason for him to consult Mr. Coolidge.

Makes Him Dry Czar.
The President has instructed him to proceed in his own way with the construction of the new enforcement machinery and has informed him that the executive will entertain no appeal from his decision.

Mr. Coolidge gave the impression that he desired senators, representatives and other politicians to take notice of his attitude. For several weeks he has been pestered with calls, letters, telegrams and telephone messages from Republican leaders, big and little, whose purpose was interference with Gen. Andrews.

Politicians Are Politicians.
Some of these politicians are seeking to drive from displacement state prohibition directors and other enforcement officers, including a number whom the department of justice has branded as grafters. Others are urging the appointment of certain candidates to the newly created offices of regional administrators and are objecting to the selections for these places which Gen. Andrews is reported to have made.

The President has refused to listen to any of these appeals and has sent word to their authors that it is futile to attempt to go over Gen. Andrews' head. He has made it clear that he holds Gen. Andrews responsible for enforcement of the prohibition law and therefore will tolerate no interference with his measures.

It's an Awful Shock to Them.
Indications are not wanting that the President's attitude has proved a great shock to the politicians who are accustomed to exerting their influence with executive results. Even in the class of service it is customary for an executive desiring a leave of absence to be given a leave of absence.

On account of the unsettled industrial conditions in Europe it has not been possible up to date to say whether the present tariff affords more protection than would be necessary under conditions of normal foreign production.

Democrats False Prophets.
Mr. Coolidge points out that the present tariff would ruin our foreign trade by reducing imports to such an extent that foreign nations would be forced to buy our products have not been fulfilled. Both our imports and exports have increased since the present tariff law was enacted, the President emphasizes.

This disclosure of the attitude of the President is notice that he will oppose any move on the part of certain agricultural interests in Iowa and other states of the grain belt for a reduction of the tariff on the articles they consume.

Elusive Beer Car Seized on Railroad's Tip

Chicago railroad officials yesterday responded to the cooperation plea of Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer Charles W. Vursell, when detectives for one of the big trunk lines called the enforcement officers with the information that a refrigerator car containing 130 barrels of real beer had just arrived at the first street train tracks. The car had been sent to Chicago via the Erie and New York Central railroads.

The railroad detective furnished the car number and details of the bill of lading, but while he was phoning Chief Vursell, the owners of the beer anticipated the move and forced through a speedy order for the diversion of the car to Whiting, Ind.

Find Car Moving.
When Group Chief Joe Prendergast and a squad of men reached the first street switch, the car was rolling Hoosierward. Chief Vursell then called William Browning, group chief at Hammond, and the beer was intercepted in toto.

The car was the sixteenth seized through Chief Vursell's office in the last five weeks. Most of the other cars originated in Pennsylvania, but yesterday's load was started from Corning, N. Y.

For the second time within a month a deputy sheriff residing in Chicago Heights, described by prohibition officials as the "most incurably wet spot in America," was arrested by dry sleuths after a large quantity of wine had been found in his home. This time the deputy sheriff was Dominic Mancini. Charges against the other alleged official member of the Chicago Heights booze and sippy ring now are pending.

Mancini had arranged an alcohol "buy" for the agents, it is alleged, and had guaranteed to steer the grog safely past any Chicago Heights policemen that might interfere with the transport of an unconcealed load.

Expect True Bills Today.
Indictments of Prohibition Director Percy Owen and other alleged conspirators in the wine scandal are expected to be returned before Federal Judge Cliffe this morning.

It was said that Maj. Owen had not been asked by Washington officials to relinquish his post. His friends stated it was possible he would not be suspended, at least until investigators make a showing of evidence implicating him.

WIFE GIVES RINGS, HUSBAND CASH, TO FLAT BANDITS

One more yell from you and you won't be able to scream any more, warned a bandit last night as he and a companion held up Mr. and Mrs. Ben Triebner as they were returning from a picture theater to their apartment at 354 Alhambra street.

One bandit grabbed Mrs. Triebner by the throat as another trained a revolver on Mr. Triebner, while they were in the vestibule of their flat building. Mrs. Triebner was wearing three rings valued at $2,000. One of them was her wedding ring. Mr. Triebner, who is in the clothing business at 427 Broadway, lost a diamond ring worth $300 and $50 in cash.

Mrs. Triebner's finger was cut when the robber forcibly pulled one of the rings from it. Other than that neither of them was harmed.

the position he took in granting Scott his stay, said:

"Under the Illinois statutes a stay of execution must be granted by a Criminal court judge to a person under sentence of death upon an allegation of insanity. Following this a sanity hearing must be held before a jury, which will decide the prisoner's mental condition."

"If found insane the judge will direct that he be held in an asylum until such time as he may recover his sanity, when a new date for execution will be fixed. If found sane by the jury, the presiding judge immediately fixes a new date for execution."

"The law is explicit," Judge David continued. "When allegations of insanity of a person awaiting execution are made to a judge he has no choice but to issue a stay pending a sanity trial."

State's Attorney Crowe was advised by telegraph at a northern Wisconsin summer resort yesterday that Judge David had "convened court at 2 o'clock in the morning without notifying the state's attorney" to grant Scott his reprieve. The prosecutor started at once for Chicago and will arrive here sometime today.

State to Fight Insanity Plea.

Pending Mr. Crowe's arrival no definite plans of the state were made public, but that Scott's insanity plea will be fought to the limit, was indicated by First Assistant Gorman, who said:

"There was no insanity at the time of his arrest," said Mr. Gorman. "There was none at his trial. There was none at his arraignment for sentence. There was none in his plea for a reprieve or commutation. In fact, it seems to me that there wasn't any at all until 2 o'clock this morning."

Much has been written about Thomas Scott, father of Scott, and his fight to save his son. Yesterday another father appeared at the Criminal court building. It was Jacob Maurer, of 1913 Jackson boulevard, 55 years old, father of Joseph Maurer, Scott's victim.

He was asked if he wished Scott to be hanged, and he replied: "I have never asked for revenge. I am an American citizen and believe in a verdict given by the court. I only want to see justice done."

Scott's Own Statement.

Commenting during the day on his expressed wish Thursday night to spend his last hours alone, Scott said: "You know, there are things to think about when one is to meet the Creator. When a person feels as I do, that he has been grievously wronged, that there is a lot of bitterness in the heart. When a man has to meet his God he should try to spend his last hours cleansing himself of that bitterness. I had puzzled the whole thing out and reasoned with myself until I had lost it all."

"I should never have received that sentence," he finished. "I was about 10 per cent guilty and 90 per cent innocent. I only helped my brother out of town—what any decent man would have done."

BRIDE, 19, ADMITS SHE AIDED SLAIN MATE ROB STORE

Margaret Gertin, 19 years old, pretty and worldly wise, confessed last night, a few hours after Peter, her husband of three weeks, had been slain while attempting to escape from a detective, that she had assisted Peter, a paroled convict, in the burglary of Andrew Roth's store at 2713 Lincoln avenue on July 24.

Her confession came after a grilling at the hands of Lieut. Hugh McCarthy of the detective bureau. For hours she maintained that she didn't know anything of her husband's nefarious activities. Then she weakened and confessed she had helped her husband that night. She was locked up at West Chicago avenue station.

Found with Loot.

Gertin was shot while in a garage in the rear of 1916 Fullerton avenue, where Detective Lalowski found him with the loot, as well as a car stolen several weeks ago from Ethel Neal, 5731 Winthrop avenue.

Lalowski was off duty at the time of the capture and shooting of Gertin, who in his criminal pursuits used also the aliases of Durkin, O'Brien, Sullivan and a few others. He and his wife had been rooming at 313 Wisconsin street. Lalowski hurried to the garage when he received a tip that Gertin could be found there. When the detective entered he found his man at work sorting cigars, cigarettes and tobacco stolen from Roth's place.

Battle for Iron Bar.

"Stick 'em up," said Lalowski. Gertin complied and the pair were on their way out when Gertin asked: "Let me get by coat and cap?" Lalowski told him to be snappy. The burglar stooped down to get his coat from the floor, and arose with a heavy iron bar in his hand.

The policeman grappled with him, forced him to drop the bar and sought to draw his revolver. While they struggled the gun was discharged, shooting Gertin in the abdomen. He broke away and fled to drop outside the garage as Lalowski fired at him again.

Police records show that Gertin was paroled last December from Joliet, after serving seven years of a fourteen year sentence imposed in 1917 for wounding a policeman and burglar.

SEIZE 2 WOMEN FOR TAKING PART IN ROBBERIES

Freed by police on Sunday, Mrs. Eva Shapiro, wife of Jack Shapiro, alleged head of an express robber gang, and his sister, Etta, were arrested yesterday on warrants charging conspiracy in connection with a series of express robberies.

The arrests followed a confession made by Michael Sberna, gunman for the group, who admitted that he shot George F. Fugley, a guard, in one of the gang's raids at Elise Island. He said the women knew of the division of spoils from one of the robberies.

Another member of the gang, Murielle Gust, 927 North Ridgeway avenue, surrendered to police yesterday.

ANSWER FIRE CALL, FIND STILL.

Police of the West Chicago station, answering a fire call at 1850 West Grand avenue early yesterday, found a 150 barrel of mash, and 150 gallons of alcohol in the house.

JURIES OF SIX IS OLSON PLAN FOR CIVIL DISPUTES

Urges Change as Economy Idea.

Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal courts last night advocated these two jury reforms, following a conference earlier in the day with City Treasurer John A. Cervenka, relative to the $40,000 deficit now in the money box for jury service in the Municipal courts:

1. Reduction of juries from twelve to six in civil suits involving small claims.
2. Adoption of commercial arbitration in certain classes of litigation, with a jury of specialists to judge the facts and the court to judge the law.

Raises Pay of Jurors.

The legislature, Judge Olson pointed out, increased the daily pay of the individual juror from $3 to $5 without increasing the jury appropriation. This resulted in a $46,900 deficit.

"Just why should there always be twelve jurors?" Judge Olson queried. "I suppose the lawyers want them because there were twelve apostles. I fancy, however, the reason is more deep seated than that. Attorneys know that the bigger the crowd in the jury box, the surer they are of finding some one who agrees with them. It's a wonder they don't want two dozen jurors."

Explains Arbitration Idea.

"A small body of specialists," he said of his second idea, "listens to the facts and judges these facts. The judge rules on points of law. Aliens best can decide on a litigant's sanity. Why shouldn't a committee of bankers be best qualified to determine the facts in a lawsuit involving business? And a group of commission merchants would best understand the facts in a suit involving their line of work."

This system functions excellently in England at the present time, according to Judge Olson.

G. F. Koester's Estate of $200,000 Goes to Widow

George F. Koester, member of the real estate firm of Koester and Zander, former member of the board of education, who died recently, left his $200,000 estate to the widow, Mrs. Fannie O. Koester, 4606 North Hermitage avenue, according to the will filed in the Probate court yesterday.

JURY DEBATES FATE OF "POISON WIDOW" OF GARY

Deadlocked on Verdict for Mrs. Cunningham.

After twelve hours deliberation, the jury considering the fate of Mrs. Anna Cunningham, Gary widow accused of the murder of her 10 year old son Walter by poison, was reported hopelessly deadlocked at midnight. Judge Martin Smith, before whom the case was heard in the Circuit court at Crown Point, Ind., ordered that if a verdict was reached it should be held until morning.

The jurors were locked in chambers to continue their debate and the judge went home. In his final instructions he had admonished that there be no compromise verdict.

"You will find this woman either guilty or not guilty of first degree murder," he stated.

Two Contrasting Pictures.

In the final argument Attorney Frank Gavit, Mrs. Cunningham's counsel, and Assistant State's Attorney Franklin Fetterer drew contrasting pictures of the middle aged widow.

Mr. Gavit declared she was a kind and loving mother, innocent and persecuted. Mr. Fetterer said she was a cold blooded killer and should be sent to the electric chair.

The home life of the Cunninghams was beautiful, according to the defense counsel. They were humble folk, but happy, he added, and none-mourned Walter and his sister and brother, Leabelle and Charles, so sincerely as their mother. He recalled testimony to the effect that her grief was all but uncontrollable when each of them died.

All died natural deaths, he asserted; Isabelle following an operation, and Charles from an illness caused by eating peaches. Walter's body, he maintained, did not contain enough poison to kill a canary.

Attacks Poison Confession.

Next the attorney centered his attack on the widow's confession, made in the Crown Point jail and admitted into the evidence over the defense protest. This document has been repudiated by Mrs. Cunningham, and Attorney Gavit declared it was made while she was in a state of hysteria and not mentally responsible. In it she told of killing the three children, so they could join Pa in heaven.

Mr. Gavit found flaws of fact in it, too. He recalled that the druggist his client named as the seller of the arsenic she bought to kill with had been on the stand and denied selling it to her.

Assistant State's Attorney Fetterer declared that all the evidence pointed to guilt and insisted that the testimony of physicians that Walter could not have been poisoned in any way except through his food be given weight.

MEISSNER YELLS IN COURT AFTER INSANITY STORY

Dead Sister's Name Brings Outbreak.

John Meissner—whose defense to a murder charge is that he is insane, became almost violent yesterday in court. Throughout the week, while a jury was being selected and part of the state's evidence being presented, Meissner sat silent.

Meissner is charged with the murder of William Schlessinger, a yellow cab driver. In a previous trial he was convicted and sentenced to death, but the Supreme court granted him a new trial. Attorneys Quilici and Cook were appointed to represent him. They decided on an insanity defense.

Three Call Him Insane.

Three lay witnesses testified yesterday they believed Meissner insane. Drs. Orlando F. Scott, James Whitney Hall and William J. Hickson were waiting to give the same opinion. Drs. William O. Krohn and Clarence N. Neymann were present to testify for the state the defendant is sane.

William McCrae, a superintendent for the International Harvester company, testified he dismissed Meissner because he thought him insane. A. C. Scherwat, who had been an army captain in the company in which Meissner served, said while in Texas Meissner killed a large snake, and then persisted in carrying it around his neck.

Prisoner Yells in Court.

Fred Davis, a former schoolmate, said Meissner had not minded punishment. Assistant State's Attorney Emmet Byrne, on cross-examination, asked: "Meissner thought a lot of his sister, Julia, who is dead, didn't he?"

"You're damned right!" Meissner shouted, jumping up. Several minutes elapsed before he was quiet.

Dr. Scott said he always became violent when Julia's name was mentioned.

MADISON PASTOR ABSOLVED BY SYNOD OF HERESY

Wauwages, Wis., July 24.—(AP)—Dr. George E. Hunt, pastor of Christ Presbyterian church, Madison, Wis., today was exonerated of charges of heresy by the Presbyterian synod of Wisconsin. The action came in the indorsement of the decision of the Madison presbytery, which in turn had cleared Dr. Hunt of the heresy charges, made last November by a minor group of Madison clergymen, partly at the behest of various clergymen throughout the country.

The charges on which Dr. Hunt was cleared involved affirmation by him of evolution, with a declaration that life developed on earth long before the appearance of man; a statement that Genesis is a crude yet mobile conception of God as the creator, and signature to a petition asking support of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in the latter's religious views.

The synod today adopted a resolution reaffirming its position on the Presbyterian declaration of faith.

LLOYD GEORGE CURZON TARGET HINT IN LONDON

LONDON, July 24.—(AP)—London tonight was all agog over a statement printed in the Evening Standard today that it understood it was former Prime Minister Lloyd George of whom Marquis Curzon dealt with "pungent illuminating comment" in the so-called "literary testament" of his will, which was probated Thursday.

The newspaper said Marquis Curzon's sharp shafts were directed at Mr. Lloyd George for having adopted the functions of British foreign secretary during the arrangement of the peace treaty at Versailles. Lord Curzon during the framing of the treaty was Mr. Lloyd George's foreign secretary.

Nothing has been made public concerning the contents of the document, which was suppressed in the Probate court because of the "startling revelations" it contained concerning the unnamed premier and other unnamed former colleagues of Lord Curzon.

BROOKHART GETS RECOUNT MARGIN IN IOWA BALLOTS

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart of Iowa registered a net gain of 306 votes over David F. Stock, his Democratic opponent, in a recount today by a senate subcommittee of uncontested ballots of several Iowa townships.

At the outset of today's count there showed a gain of thirty votes in the tabulation of uncontested ballots, but this was wiped out as the work progressed.

The largest discrepancy was found in Madison township, Buchanan county, where the official state reports gave Brookhart 21 and Stock 212. On the recount by the subcommittee, however, this township gave Brookhart 278 and Stock 228, which figures tallied with the count made by the Iowa election tellers of the township.

3 HEIRS CROWN REPUDIATED FORTUNE IN

Jacksonville, Fla., July 24.—(AP)—The three children of Croker, former New York boss, by his first wife, have important court decision in relation with their father's estate and widow, Mrs. Beulah Croker. Federal Judge Call today null and void certain conveyances of Florida properties which Croker attempted during his lifetime.

J. B. McDonald. These properties included Croker's Palm Beach estate. The total value is about $10,000,000.

Under the court's ruling, which Croker had tried to force to McDonald now reverts to McDonald, Mrs. Croker is a lower share, while the by the first Mrs. Croker, their full shares as heirs.

Widow Repudiated Des Moines.

Mrs. Croker has been claiming the Florida properties under her husband's will. When McDonald agreed to sell and convey certain covered in his contracts Croker, the widow intervened, nullified the deal, although, in contract, she was to get the proceeds from any sales made by McDonald.

Richard Croker, Howard Croker, and Ethel Croker White in the or the in January, alleged that McDonald had no right under the contract of Florida to convey property as his homestead so, as to the rights of the widow and her property. It asked title in of the complainants, subject to the claims of the widow, lower rights of the widow.

Holds Deeds Are Void.

Judge Call ruled the series were void because the deeds, contracts with McDonald did not constitute an alienation of his rights in accordance with the constitution.

Stripped of its legal ph the decision means that the of Richard Croker will share Florida millions, whereas if between Croker and McDonald been upheld, only the widow claim the profit and any proceeds from any sales made by McDonald.

$10,000,000 Florida Estate Will Be Shared In.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 24.—(Special)—The three children of Richard Croker, former New York Tammany boss, by his first wife, have won an important court decision in their litigation with their father's second wife and widow, Mrs. Beulah Croker.

Federal Judge Call today declared null and void certain conveyances of Florida properties which Croker attempted during his lifetime to give to J. R. McDonald. These properties included Croker's Palm Beach estate. The total value is about $10,000,000.

Under the court's ruling, the properties which Croker had tried to transfer to McDonald now revert to the estate, and Mrs. Croker is entitled to her dower share, while the children by the first Mrs. Croker are given their full shares as heirs.

Widow Repudiated Deal.
Mrs. Croker has been claiming all the Florida properties under her husband's will. When McDonald endeavored to sell and convey certain parcels covered in his contracts with Mr. Croker, the widow intervened and repudiated the deal, although, under the contract, she was to get the whole proceeds from any sales made by McDonald.

Richard Croker, Howard Croker, and Ethel Croker White in the original bill, filed in January, alleged that Croker had no right under the constitution of Florida to convey property set aside as his homestead so as to defeat the rights of the widow and heirs in the property. It asked title in the name of the complainants, subject to the sever rights of the widow.

Holds Deeds Are Void.
Judge Call ruled the series of deeds were void because the deeds and the contracts with McDonald did not constitute an alienation of his homestead rights in accordance with the Florida constitution.

CHICAGO LIKELY TO WIN DELAY ON WATERMETERS

Drastic U. S. Action Seems Far Off.

Whether Chicago will be punished by the federal government for failure of the city council to pass the water meter ordinance is a matter of policy to be decided solely by Secretary of War Weeks on his return to his desk after his long illness, inquiry at Washington disclosed yesterday.

Metering One of Conditions.
It was one of the conditions of the permit granted the sanitary district that the city would meter its water. The permit called upon the city to make definite provision for metering by Sept. 3. The council has recessed until Oct. 28.

Absence of Secretary Weeks as well as other war department officials who are on vacations may permit the city to act on the metering ordinance before any drastic action is taken by the federal government.

That was the impression gained in Washington, although none of the officials in the capital yesterday pretended to speak with authority.

Six Months' Extension Likely.
Belief was expressed in Washington yesterday that a six months' extension of time would be granted on assurance that action toward metering will be taken by the council when it reconvenes.

Eight Take Pensions

Eight policemen among the 160 veterans ordered by Chief Collins to appear before the examining board for physical efficiency tests have resigned since the order went out, the chief announced yesterday. All of the 160 are beyond the age of 62 and all are eligible for pensions. Charges of disobedience will be filed with the trial board against the sixteen men who failed to show up for examination of the first fifty on the list, the chief said.

INJURED DIVER'S PARENTS WIN IN RACE WITH DEATH

Wakefield, R. I., July 24.—(AP)—"Considerable improvement" in the condition of Roddy Marshall Jr., of Pittsburgh, was noted by his physicians here tonight after his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roddy B. Marshall, who landed in New York today from Europe and raced to his bedside, had visited the boy late this afternoon.

Young Marshall was injured in a dive from the Narragansett pier seawall on July 15. His parents cut short their European tour and took the liner Aquila via home. The customs cutter Harlan met them at the New York quarantine this morning and rushed them to the dock while a special inspector passed their baggage. Then a waiting automobile took them to the Grand Central station, where they boarded a train for the last stretch of their race against death.

While the specialists said that Roddy was living by will power alone his family physician, Dr. Rawlings of Pittsburgh, held to the hope that Roddy might live, although all agreed he would be crippled for life.

USING ERASER ON OATH MAY COST WITTNER HIS JOB

Evolution Champion Tried to Improve It.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(Special)—Rulings will be asked from the solicitor of the treasury or the department of justice as to whether or not Loren H. Wittner, complainant in Washington's "evolution" suit is holding his position in the treasury department illegally.

It was discovered today that Wittner, in taking a federal job, on three occasions scratched out portions of the oath of allegiance he was supposed to subscribe to. Wittner is an atheist.

The revelation concerning Wittner's altered oath created much comment at the treasury and recalled to old timers the case of Walt Whitman, the poet, who was dismissed from the treasury service soon after the civil war because of beliefs expressed in his book "Leaves of Grass."

Attracted Little Attention.
Wittner's papers disclose that he first scratched out the word "swear" in the opening phrase, "I do solemnly swear." This is permissible, as the optional word "affirm" is provided for members of religious sects such as the Society of Friends whose tenets do not permit them to take an oath. But at the end of the oath Wittner had struck out the entire phrase, "So help me God." For this there is no precedent as far as any government officials consulted today could tell.

James E. Harper, chief of the appointment division said that what surprised him was that on three occasions Wittner's papers passed without comment being raised as to the deleted portions.

Rushing the "Anti" Bill.
In the meanwhile the "evolution" suit will come up for its initial hearing on Tuesday when the corporation counsel will move for dismissal.

Fundamentalists will ask Senator Kenneth McKellar and house members of the Tennessee delegation to see to it that the clause in the District of Columbia appropriation bill refusing salaries to teachers who expound evolutionary theories be made permanent law when congress meets next winter.

POLES TO DEPORT 35,000 GERMANS FIRST OF AUGUST

BERLIN, July 24.—Deportations and reprisals reminiscent of the Turco-Greek exchange of populations, but on a much smaller scale, will take place between Poland and Germany on Aug. 1. About 35,000 Germans inhabiting territory given to Poland under the Versailles treaty, who do not own homes or land, will be sent across the German frontier. Late this evening it was decided that Germany will deport 10,000 Poles as a reprisal unless the deportation order against the Germans is rescinded.

In many cases the Germans who must leave Poland were born in Posen and Prussian districts, which became Polish after the war.

GIRL KIDNAPED; POLICE SEEK FOR REJECTED SUITOR

Kidnaping a girl in hope of winning her by caveman tactics gave the police of Chicago and Melrose Park a busy day yesterday.

Mary Farina, 17 years old, of Melrose Park was kidnaped from in front of her father's grocery store by five men in an automobile. Neighbors recognized one of the men as Charles De Francisco, 2220 Mango avenue, Chicago, a suitor of Mary's who had been spurned by her. Police are searching for him.

Two other newly married couples, found at 1464 West Chicago avenue, were questioned on complaint of the mothers of the young brides. The couples are Dominic Moretti, 25, of 1305 West Ohio street, and his bride, the former Miss Theresa Corrinio, 21, of 1014 West Ohio street, and Rocco Rodogna and his wife, who was Flornie Carbone, 19, of 944 West Ohio street. No charges were made against the men or their wives by the police.

R. G. WEIDENHEIM.

SYMPATHY FOR MURDERERS.

Chicago, July 23. — Your editorial "Murder, Rape and the Rodeo," was direct and in line with my personal ideas on the subject. Take the Russell Scott case, for instance. Here is a perfect illustration of the idiosyncrasy of these would-be champions of humanity. Women's clubs all over Canada and the United States are feverishly protesting the hanging of a convicted murderer—and yet they cry aloud that crime must stop. Two women are rushing frantically to the President in a mad effort to free a criminal—and no doubt they are among the loudest condemners of the present situation in Chicago.

When such as these have learned to stop meddling with the scales of justice, when they have learned that crime will continue to flourish as long as the door to freedom is flung wide and is so easily accessible to the criminal; when they have learned that their imbecile clucking is certainly far from aiding the security of the citizens; then, and not until then, let them turn their efforts toward abolishing the rodeo, for they certainly have small room to talk about such a trivial matter as the bulldozing of animals while a brutal human murderer wins their sympathy and pity.

EDITH V. LINCOLN.

AT THE ZOO.

Chicago, July 23.—Last Saturday we went to Lincoln park to see the animals. From what we saw we think the Lincoln park commissioners should take immediate action to correct conditions among the animals. In the north end of the buffalo pen lay a dying buffalo, and it was not a sickness of a day, either. Its ribs showed through; its eyes were bloodshot, and it was infested with flies. Worms, the other buffaloes were in the same pen. When I tried to report it it was just 5:15. I found the office closed, but was told on most excellent authority that this is the third buffalo to die within two weeks. What pleasure is it for us Chicagoans to visit the zoo, much less display its deplorable conditions to outside visitors? The time was when we were proud of it, small as it was, but the animals were clean or, when sick, were kept apart from the well, and when need be put out of their misery. What is the trouble, politics? And they want us to vote "Yes" on the greater Lincoln park.

H. M. S.

YOU WEREN'T ALONE.

Chicago, July 22.—And to think I voted for him for President twice.

FULL Q. BOND.

THE F. O. DEFICIT.

Chicago, July 23.—Mr. William Groves' article hits the nail on the head in regard to the postal deficit. I personally know that many hundreds of thousands of dollars could be saved in a year by eliminating untold numbers of second class postmasters. Their only interest in the department is their check and political pull and they receive all the way from $2,500 to $5,000 per year. I don't know of one in ten that lives up to what the department requires of them. The assistant postmaster is the one who does their work. As Coolidge is out for an economical administration he could not find a better place to eliminate so much graft, and I often wonder if he would not appreciate having it called to his attention, for I can not believe he is it go on knowingly.

Cut the politics from the F. O. D. and will not be a financial "fat wheel" in the treasury. BARNUM JOHNSON.

WARFARE OFTEN NECESSARY, SAYS MUSSOLINI'S AID

Wishes Won't Stop It, He Tells Institute.

Williamstown, Mass., July 24.—(Special.)—In the first of a series of six lectures on "The Mediterranean Area and Italy," at the Institute of Politics tonight Count Antonio Cippico, Italian ambassador and Fascist, defended war as a "natural necessity," when a nation takes arms "to defend its own right to exist," to remedy the defects of its geographical, political or economical situation in the world, or to make good its own civilization as opposed to the inferior civilization of other people.

Delivered before a distinguished audience, including the Italian ambassador, Delacoe Castani, Count Cippico's address was regarded as especially significant because of Italy's overpopulation problem, her dissatisfaction with the division of the German colonies between France and England by the peace treaty, and her reported desire to expand into north Africa for raw materials for her surplus population and for supplies of raw materials.

Mouthpiece for Mussolini.

Count Cippico, a staunch supporter of Mussolini, is the first official spokesman of fascism and new nationalism to be heard at any session of the institute.

The Italian spokesman had nothing but scorn for pacifism and all "fanatical and Utopian schemes" for universal peace. He declared that "war could never be abolished by the mere wish to do so, as long as the present economic condition of the nations existed. If the world wants peace, he said, it must find some just and equitable solution for the problems which arise out of the conflicting interests of the various nations."

Italy, he showed, has no illusions about peace and war. Desiring a peaceful solution of her problems, she nevertheless has her feet firmly planted on the ground and her eyes fixed on realities, and will not be misled by anti-war or disarmament propaganda.

Talk Won't Stop War.

"It seems to me utterly useless," he said, "given the actual economic condition of war either by popular movements or by congresses tending to total or partial disarmament. To talk it feasible to establish universal peace by the sheer strength of instinctive aspirations, be they of the noblest individuals or nobles, is to lose one's self in a blind Utopian labyrinth. The obdurate and fanatical scolds of such movements of public opinion, who deceive themselves and mislead international collectivities are doomed to bitter disillusionment. And more than that it is realized they become the unconscious causes of war, by encouraging fanaticism, at the service of any religion whatsoever, is a hysterical phenomenon which many times in history has proved the determining cause of vast fratricidal strife among nations."

DAWES MEGAPHONES MOVIE FOLK ABOUT IN FRONTIER DAYS FILM

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 24.—(Special.)—President Dawes today assumed the role of motion picture director and momentarily guided the filming of "The Pony Express," a Western picture, at "Julesburg, Wyo.," a location four miles from here.

Aided by an occasional word from James Cruze and Betty Compson, Mr. Dawes appeared to enjoy the experience, shouting "camera" like a veteran.

The Dawes party included Mrs. Dawes and United States Senator and Mrs. Warren.

After his return from the movie location, Mr. Dawes reviewed the Frontier Days parade, a colorful spectacle participated in by artillery and cavalry from Fort Russell, nearly four hundred Indians and hundreds of cowboys and cowgirls.

No definite announcement was forthcoming as to whether Mr. Dawes would accept the invitation of Sioux Indians to become an honorary member of their tribe together with Gov. Nellie T. Ross, who is to become an Indian princess by adoption.

BABY NOT LIKE UNWANTED CHAIR, JUDGE'S OPINION

Lora-Lee is not to be given away like an old piece of furniture, nor a new piece of pie.

Not while Judge Harry F. Hamlin of the Court of Domestic Relations, and Mrs. H. W. Hartough, president of the Women's Protective association, have anything to say about it. They had considerable to say yesterday when Mrs. Helen Lacy, Lora-Lee's mother, appeared in court, charged with having offered to give away the month old baby to a Mrs. John Yurberly.

The mother blamed her husband, Howard, who, she told the court, had given her just two things—$5 last December and the advice, about a week ago, before deserting her, that she advertise the baby as a gift.

Before any such ad was printed, a matron at the county jail heard of it and notified Mrs. Hartough.

She had met and aided Mrs. Lacy before.

So when Mrs. Hartough heard of this new turn of affairs she summoned the mother and the father of the unwanted baby down to the Court of Domestic Relations for a conference. Mrs. Lacy came. Mr. Lacy, a 21 year old railroad worker, did not. Then they were summoned again to court yesterday. Again the father failed to put in an appearance.

Judge Hamlin continued the case for 30 days so the husband, who is reported to be living with his grandmother at 1026 Grace street, might be located.

It is said that the other Lacy child, a boy 2½ years old, is with Mrs. Lacy's grandmother in Bloomington, Ill., having been presented to her as one might present an extra chair.

CHINESE CLOSE UNION OFFICES IN SHANGHAI RAID

Strikers Riot as Doles Are Withheld.

(Copyright: 1925. By The Chicago Tribune.)

SHANGHAI, July 24.—The local Fengtien military authorities today, acting apparently upon instructions from Peking, made a general cleanup of the local strike situation, raiding and closing the seamen's union, commerce, education, labor union, and the students' union, making many arrests and warning the leaders of the penalty of execution unless the disorders and intimidations were immediately discontinued.

Riot For Strike Doles.

The foreign settlement police today broke up a mob of 300 seamen, who attempted to storm the Chinese chamber of commerce, demanding strike doles, promised by the students but not forthcoming. The failure to receive further strike funds is leading to much bitterness among the workers, who claim they were double-crossed by the agitators, who induced them to quit their jobs.

The workers at the Japanese cotton mills today renewed their demands for recognition of their union, full wages during the strike, a pay increase, an order preventing mill employees from carrying arms, and compensation for laborers injured during the recent rioting. The Japanese proprietors refuse to recognize the union, although willing to grant a pay increase and to indemnify relatives of the killed, and wounded.

Shocking Refuses Aid.

The shortage of funds by the union leaders is causing a bombardment of the Peking government for official aid, but this has been turned down, due to the possibility of a misunderstanding with the powers. The unions declare the local Fengtien military is in a league with foreign imperialism, saying Gen. Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian leader, is subsidized by the powers.

Reds Command Gunboats.

CANTON, July 24.—(Special.)—Red Russian commanders are being appointed by the present Canton government heads to command their gunboats, the British consul general declared tonight at the Canton club. The appointments are being made, he said, by Hu Hon-Min, former civil governor.

'HIGH LIFE' WIFE ASSAILS SPOUSE IN LONDON COURT

Doctors Testify on Modern Women.

(Copyright: 1925. By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, July 24.—Modern women were again under the medical microscope in the divorce court today during the trial in which Baldwin Raper, formerly Conservative member of parliament, is suing his wife, formerly Marchioness Conyngham, for divorce, charging her with misconduct and habitual drunkenness.

Mrs. Raper retailed with serious charges against Mr. Raper. Sir Arbuthnot Lane, one of the leading English surgeons, was called today to testify regarding Mrs. Raper's condition. "A perfectly normal woman of her type," Sir Arbuthnot explained. "A type of the present day. Highly strung, nervous, suffering from overstrain, and looking for pleasure and excitement."

Avoids Marital Rows.

Dr. Belfrage, Mrs. Raper's own physician, also did some generalizing about modern marital conditions.

"I never try to get mixed up in the relations between a husband and wife," he told the court. "In these days, when there are so many unhappy marriages, one's whole time would be taken up with matrimonial disputes if one got mixed up in them. I skate over the subject as lightly as possible, and I think that is the policy every busy doctor adopts. "I knew Mr. and Mrs. Raper were not happily married, and never expected that they would be. I formed the opinion that Mr. Raper was not the type of man who would be wise in selecting as a husband, I think every body forms an opinion that way at a wedding. It is one of the most interesting points of a wedding."

Mrs. Raper said today he had never heard of his wife's liaison with a prominent statesman, now dead, which she said yesterday she had confessed to her husband before their marriage. The evidence was closed and the case adjourned until Tuesday after the judge said he was satisfied that Mrs. Raper was not a habitual drunkard.

Duke, United States capitalist, and the Aluminum Company of America. SEEK NEW DELAY IN TRIAL OF TWO ACCUSED KILLERS

More Lawyers Join in Sicilians' Defense.

Experienced Criminal court lawyers yesterday became associated in the defense of John Scialo and Albert Anselino, Sicilian gangsters. Result: A delay will be sought Monday to prevent the defendants from being placed on trial then on the charge that they killed Policeman Harold Olson and Charles B. Walsh.

First Assistant State's Attorney George E. Gorman said: "We had hoped to set an example to killers by the hanging of Scott today and trial of Scialo and Anselino on Monday. We'll certainly oppose any move for a continuance when the matter comes up before Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins."

Only Represents Scialo.

Attorneys Thomas D. Nash and Michael Ahern were the entries yesterday into the legal contest for two lives. Attorney Ahern said they will represent Scialo only and that Attorney Patrick H. O'Donnell will continue as counsel for Anselino. "We shall certainly ask the court for time to prepare his defense," the veteran of many murder defenses said. "The supreme court says the defendant has the right to a reasonable time. We shall want perhaps three weeks."

The previous events to date in this case are as follows:

June 12. Policemen Olson and Walsh killed and Policeman Conway wounded. Mike Gena killed and Scialo and Anselino captured.

June 15. An indictment voted charging Scialo and Anselino with murder.

Small Lawyers Appear.

June 16. Attorney Robert E. Cantwell Jr. appears at arraignment and asks for time for the defendants to decide on the attorneys they will hire.

June 19. Attorneys Patrick H. O'Donnell and Werner Schroeder, personal lawyers for Gov. Small, appear for the two accused. Judge Hopkins set July 27 as the date of trial, which was acceptable to the defense lawyers. Since then Schroeder has withdrawn from the case and Attorney Ben Short for a time was a prospective defender. Then he learned that Policeman Walsh was a distant relative of his and he decided not to serve.

July 22. Subpoenas served upon sixty state witnesses to appear next Monday.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL OFFERED IN GEORGIA HOUSE

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—(Special.)—An anti-lynching bill today was introduced in the Georgia house of representatives. The measure provides that any officer found guilty of negligence in a riot, riotous assembly or mob violence shall be removed from office and the sheriff of the county involved be subjected to a suit for $5,000 for each homicide by the mob and "for the full value of the property injured or destroyed."

After fees are deducted, the balance of the money would be turned over to the heirs of the victim or victims.

"Proof that any person was in the custody of the respondent officer, or any of his deputies and was either killed or injured while in such custody, or taken from the custody of such officer by a mob or riotous assembly, shall be prima facie evidence of such neglect," the measure reads, "to be rebutted only by proof."

DEVER OPPOSES $35,000 JUNKET FOR ALDERMEN

Mayor Dever has put his foot down on the proposed European junket or council committee chairman and city department heads. If the council pass an appropriation to cover expenses of the trip the mayor will veto it. This information circulated in the council chamber yesterday and caused a full day of discussion of the trip.

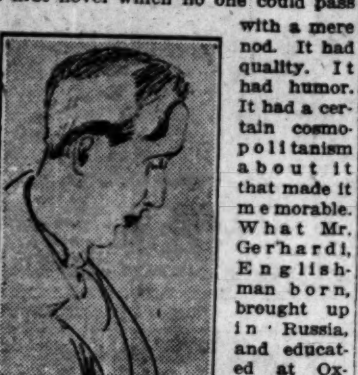

In view of his retrenchment program the mayor thinks it would be inconsistent to approve a sea voyage for the purpose of letting Chicago aldermen see how they run the big towns over there.

Legal Smoke Raised to Hide Drucci's Gun Totin'

Legal technicalities were raised yesterday in defense of Vincent Drucci, the first of Chicago's gangster leaders placed on trial under the new anti-gangster law. Drucci's attorney argued that Chief of Detectives Schenck acted in not arresting Drucci before searching him, instead of searching him first and then placing him under arrest. While Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Schenck pointed out the weighty question, Judge Howard Hayes continued the case until July 26.

"The Polyglots," Like "Futility," Is Worth Reading

By Fanny Butcher.
"The Polyglots," by William Gerhard (Duffield).
"Futility," by William Gerhard was a first novel which no one could pass

WILLIAM GERHARD.

with a mere nod. It had quality. It had humor. It had a certain comicality about it that made it memorable. What Mr. Gerhard, an Englishman born, brought up in Russia, and educated at Oxford, made of his second book

"The Polyglots" has lost something of great charm to me, as compared with "Futility," but that loss of youth (if you will) is in the eyes of many a gain, and there you are. This book is concerned with the same kind of household of polyglots, with a family life that has much of the privacy of a monkey cage at the zoo, full of chatter and goings on all the time. Mr. Gerhard has a keen sense of character drawing. His Aunt Teresa, luxurious and penniless, who is always having a nervous crisis; Sylvia, his cousin, whom he loves and sees married to another man, but whom he takes from his rival on her wedding night, the little children—who, perhaps, are the most delightful of all the characters—the horde of relatives who expect to be served by the funny old Russian general—everybody is amusing and as true as the laughter of the characters in that most alluring of ballads, "Petrovichka." Very foreign they all seem, and in themselves, very amusing. But Mr. Gerhard's book is too long, too discursive. It has 275 pages, which would have been 250 if he had been more of a craftsman and less beguiled by his own writing.

The charm of the characters is lost, often, in the author's reflections, which is a pity, since the characters are the author's forte, while his reflections are much those of any young man who feels himself a clever cynic.

Travel Books.
Miss Clara Laughlin has written, besides her fascinating "So You're Going to Paris," and her equally enchanting "So You're Going to Italy" (just out), two new kinds of travel books, "Your Trip to Italy" and "Your Trip to France," which are published by her own travel course, and while the latter books make you want to go as soon as you possibly can, the little books of letters make you certain that it has got to be immediate. They are written in the form of letters which cover the possible night-seeing of a day each, and you can take your day's directions with you separately instead of carrying with you a whole volume.

The directions are especially fascinating to me because they not only tell the historical and financial facts that we all want to know, but they tell what books to read to prepare you for the exact spot that you'll be looking at that day, the parts of books in which are hidden the delicious bits of gossip which will make that spot come alive to you forever. In May and June, the "Rector of Wyke" her hero and heroine talk about a trip to Europe which they want to take—and never do, poor dears. Every year they would go abroad and come back with minds stored with beautiful impressions that would last them their lives. "Just think," said John, "how long you could live on Rome." These very intimate talks on a trip certainly make one feel one could live a long time on France and Italy.

"Dominion," by John Preland (Stokes).
John Preland has written a novel called "Dominion," which is the story of the Cecil Rhodes period in South Africa. The chief division of England just now is identifying the characters in the book. The author and his publishers do not deny that all of them are actual and recognizable.

CONFESSIONS

A. HAMILTON GIBBS.

"Soundings," by A. Hamilton Gibbs is one of the best of the spring novels, a very modern, old-fashioned tale, which you must admit is a tour de force. But Mr. Gibbs brings it off and proves by it that neither of his brothers, Sir Philip Gibbs nor Compton Gibbs, is a better novelist than the youngest of the trio. When I asked Mr. Gibbs what book he would rather have written than any other, he replied:

"Dear Miss Butcher: There are three books which I would like to have written. The first two are 'Dream Days' and 'The Golden Age,' by Kenneth Grahame—which have an enchantment that has only been equaled by that legendary person, the Pied Piper. To me they have a beauty, a tenderness, and an understanding that are positively wistful. The third book is Siegfried Sassoon's 'Counter Attack'—that slim little volume which, bound in black, could very fittingly be placed on the tomb of each nation's Unknown Soldier. Before I read those poems of his I tried to get some of the war out of my system in a volume of verse called 'Blue-bottle,' and then I got hold of a copy of 'Counter Attack' and could have wept for joy and sorrow, because there were all the things that I had tried to write in Sassoon in blood and tears, terribly, magnificently, unforgettably.

Yours very sincerely,
A. HAMILTON GIBBS

"The Way of Stars," by L. Adams Beck (Dodd Mead).

For those who like the mysticism of the east L. Adams Beck has written another novel, like her "The Way of Stars," and is concerned with strange adventures in Egypt and India, the reincarnation of a queen of ancient Egypt in the person of a young prince of modern India and with the terrible havoc which it wrought. The author—who is the same person as E. Barrington, you know, author of "Glorious Apollo"—knows her India and weaves into all of her stories of that land not only the weirdest of mysticism but much of the beauty of Indian peace. Those who are most devoted to L. Adams Beck say that this is her best Indian tale. The thing that I like better than anything else she has ever written—that I have read—is the story of the building of the Taj Mahal, one of the most exquisitely lovely things I have ever read. It was just a short tale, a retelling of an old legend, but traced with the rarest beauty of word and of phrase.

Another chapter of Ferdinand Ossendowski's
adventures is vigorously told in
From President to Prison

During the Russo-Japanese war he was a chemist in the supply department of Kuroki's army. Of this he tells and of the irony of things and corruption which after the war brought on the Revolution of 1905. Dr. Ossendowski then for 53 days as President of the short-lived Far Eastern Republic was ruler of half the Tsar's domain. His collapse brought a prison sentence. His chapters on prison life and prison psychology are as valuable as they are absorbing.

Lady Jones Revealed as the Authoress of
"Serena Blandish"
BY SIDNEY DARK.
(Barth Critic).

"A Lady of Quality," the nom de plume used by the authoress of "Serena Blandish," is not as has been reported in America, a camouflage for Max Beerbaum. The real name of the author, or I should say authoress, of the novel, is Lady Jones, wife of Sir Rodrick Jones, the chairman of Reuters' Telegraphic agency, which does for the people of this country what the Associated Press does for America. Lady Jones has written other novels under the name of Enid Dagobert.

It is very interesting to learn that Anatole France wrote an introduction for a new edition of Jack London's "The Iron Heel" shortly before he died. This is to be published almost immediately here. I should not have imagined that the great French ironist and the American realist had very much in common. Indeed, it is a new sidelight on a complex and illusive character to learn that Anatole was interested in Jack London's full-blooded stories.

Lytton Strachey has written a play. It is to be produced on a Sunday evening by one of the many highbrow theater societies that flourish in London on behalf of the funds of the society for women's service of which the author's sister is the secretary.

Lytton Strachey's estimate of Pope has not received universal agreement. Edmund Gosse, now the doyen of English criticism, resents the suggestion that Pope was "a little monster" and a "fendish monkey." He declares that the people whom the poet attacked received no more than their deserts and that Pope had a high regard for genius and virtue, just as he had outspoken contempt for incompetence, dullness and presumption.

Rider Haggard has left four completed novels, a very remarkable fact considering how many he published before his death. He also left almost a completed biography and a series of diaries kept for many years. The modern English author is generally a busy and industrious person, but Rider Haggard's industry was almost inhuman.

The enormous output of new novels in London (it should be added that many of them are English editions of already published American stories) may be gathered from the fact that between the end of July and the end of October one publishing house is issuing seventy new novels. Among the authors are John Buchan, Ian Hay, George Birmingham, and A. S. M. Hutchinson.

If you were a young doctor with a brilliant career ahead of you—and if you had made a ghastly slip in an operation, what would life hold for you?

If you were a girl and discovered yourself in love with a man who had failed terribly in a crisis, could you find it in your heart to forgive him?

Such is the intensely dramatic theme of Margaret Pedler's new story. Human and gripping, it is by far the strongest thing that she has yet done.

"Tales from Silver Lands" Awarded Neuberry Medal

The Neuberry medal which is given each year to the American writer making the most distinguished contribution to literature for children has been awarded to Charles J. Finger of Fayetteville, Ark., for his "Tales from Silver Lands." The award is made by vote of the Children's Librarians association. It was inaugurated in 1922, when it was presented to Hendrik Willem Van Loon for his "The Story of Mankind." In 1923 it was given to Hugh Lofting, author of the Dr. Doolittle books, and last year to Charles Boardman Hawes (posthumously) for his "Dark Frigate." Mr. Finger is known to the readers of adult books for his delightful "Highwaymen" and "Bushrangers" and for his magazine "All's Well," which was the successor of "Reddy's Mirror." His life is no less picturesque than the tales of adventure that he tells. He was born in England, in Welleford, where Thomas Hughes, author of "Tom Brown's Schooldays," once lived, and he came to America when he was a boy. He has been in Africa, in South America, in the Antarctic, and has followed the trail of Magellan from Belem to the Pacific. This led to explorations in the Andes, in Tierra del Fuego, and in all kinds of odd and unknown spots. Like George Borrow, he lived with those he met—with Indians, gaucho miners, sailors, every one—a high hearted adventurer. He has settled down now and does his adventuring with his pen.

"The World Today," by L. Haden Guest and Sir Harry Johnston. (Putnam).

What seems to be the last of the Outline books is "The World Today," by L. Haden Guest and Sir Harry Johnston. It is in form like the Outline of Science and Literature and Art and the Wonders of the Past. It is a sort of world tour which may be taken in the comforts of one's own fireside chair. Thus far two volumes of it have been published.

A very charming little book is Moma Clarke's "Regarding the French." Just a pleasant little volume about the manners and customs of the French, their pets, their food, their home life, their money matters—everything imaginable. The book is illustrated with most amusing little sketches, and was printed in Paris, which is perhaps what gives it a certain unusual and alluring look.

"The Judgment of Paris"

By Carleton Kemp Allen. (Dodd Mead).
An inconsequential novel with the light touch is as rare as a mockingbird on the corner of State and Madison streets lately. No one seems to care to waste his or her time doing a completely and honestly frivolous piece of writing well. There is humor, heavy or forced, or dashed off and utterly inconsequential, or occasionally good humor. But the novel which says nothing on earth and that with a grace in a gesture which is rarely seen these days in literature. Written with only one end in view—to amuse the reader—a novel never finds a well-cushioned seat among the mighty of the book world, but it furnishes just that to the weary reader.

"The Judgment of Paris" by Carleton Kemp Allen is exactly that, a tale not the least telling, utterly frivolous and impossible and at the same time amusing and gay and jaunty and all of the other pages or of adjectives that you can find in Rogit. It is about a young man who inherited his uncle's fortune, founded on pills, and who, from a quiet and perfectly happy man about town who never had earned a penny and never wanted to and who lived the quiet life of a gentleman suddenly became a public character, a target for designing mothers and got himself hopelessly entangled—apparently with a dapper.

THE GUMPS—KNOTS AND NOTS

The BOBCAT

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.
Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, disposes of one of his young lieutenants called Pol Gallard because he is irritated by the latter's devotion to agriculture and nonchalance manner. Pol learns that his ex-employer covets a valuable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another man, Michael Cadriani, is after the same bit of land. Cadriani lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his stepdaughter, Veronica, across the bay from Professor Husted. The latter lives like a hermit, Veronica his only visitor. Cadriani asks her to marry him, but she declines, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Cadriani then calls on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Cadriani then calls on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.
POL MAKES ANOTHER FRIEND.
It was plain to Pol that the independence of the Italian girl's declaration was mostly verbal. The half frightened expression of her eyes did not back up her words. Pol gathered that papa was not only a tyrant in a physical but in his moral ascendancy. The girl was obviously scared at her own words, trying to talk herself into a resolution she lacked.

"What do you think he'd do if you quit him?" Pol asked.
"That's what's bothering me. I've got a raw deal, mister."

"Well, it doesn't seem right that a girl that's got what you have shouldn't be allowed to make her own life," Pol said. "The chances are that you wouldn't be long on the job before some competent chap had sense enough to grab you off and marry you."

"I'm not looking for that. I want to see something first. When a girl's married loose from what I've been doing all this time she ain't in any hurry to walk right into it again."

"Then you don't happen to be in love with anybody?"
"Who'd I be in love with in this dump?" Her rich voice was scornful.

"Maybe I've got ideas about my class, as papa keeps throwing up to me, but I wouldn't be a first girl like that's put 'em across. Well, I mustn't stand here chewing the rag about my troubles."

She came down the steps with a light, strong swing of her supple body.

"How's your cat and how are you making out aboard your boat? Ain't it homesome?"

Pol shot her a swift, suspicious look, then said, "My boat was sunk last night when I was asleep, and my cat would have been drowned if I hadn't heard her singing on the top-sail."

The girl checked her step, staring at an unconscious pose of dismay. There was no question of the startled surprise in the face she turned to Pol.

"What's that?" she asked.
"What's that?" she asked.

Season-Opened at Lake Forest by Horse Show

Whole North Shore Turns
Out for Festivities.

BY NANCY R.

Breaking into the comfortable quiet of a summer season in the country, somewhat as a lazy, warm hearted sun broke through the clouds yesterday afternoon, came the opening day of the horse show at Onwenta. This afternoon's festivities in the neat little ring that lies across a few fairways to the southwest of the clubhouse may surpass for thrills and chuckles those of yesterday, but the boxes and grandstand flanking the show space won't find a more enthusiastic, responsive or fashionable crowd of watchers.

The whole countryside turned out, despite threatening skies and occasional scurries of light raindrops, and there was much gay-visiting back and forth between boxes—a gay, informal, hospitable wandering about.

Receiving by far the most cordial greetings of the day were that avowed pair of round the globe voyagers, just returned from their long trip: Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon.

The latter shared a box for the occasion with the Charles Atkinsons and their guests of the day, the James Lawrence Houghtons.

Opera, "Fodora," 8:15 p. m., Ravinia Park

Most becoming to her auburn coloring, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, in gray blue printed crepe, with a broad black hat shared the hospitality of Mrs. R. R. McCormick's box whenever her two daring daughters, Janet and Libby Chase, didn't draw her to the edge of the ring with their equestrian prowess.

Mrs. McCormick's other guests were her lovely daughter, Miss Josephine Irwin, in white with a cheery yellow plaid scarf; Mrs. Edward Pollock, in black; Mrs. William P. Martin, in a copper hued frock; Mrs. Robert Caldwell, and the lovely Madame Ivanenko, who, with her dashing husband, Capt. Ivanenko, was an interested onlooker of the day's activities.

Of the horsemen and women who figure so valiantly and ably in all doings of the saddle there were, sprinkled in the audience or nobly performing in the ring, the John Andrews Kings, Prentiss L. Conoley, the three daughters of the Robert W. Hamills, Katherine, Emily, and Frances; the Austin Niblocks, E. J. Prendergast, E. J. Lehmann, Jane Morton (according to my way of thinking, just about the smartest equestrienne we boast), Mrs. Howard Linn, and Mrs. Donald Ryerson.

Sally to Announce Baseball Guests and Tell of New Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

THE TRIBUNE tomorrow will bring the news of the lucky 100 who win invitations to my big baseball party next Thursday at the Cubs park.

There'll be another party announcement tomorrow, too, so be watching for it, girls and boys!

Here are a few more of the winning letters for the baseball game:

"Dear Sally: The crack of the bat! The sight of the ball! Where is it going to land? Fair or foul? Is it a hit or is it an out? These questions are what flash through the mind of the spectators when a ball is hit."

"I love to watch a ball game, for the excitement is intense. The Cubs-Giants game is going to be a real ball game that every one present will enjoy. Every game between Chicago and New York is a real fight, because these two cities are rivals in all kinds of sport, so each will try to gain on the other. Nothing would please me better than to see the Cubs win."

"I hope I am one of your lucky hundred, as I would give a lot to see a real ball game."

"Dear Sally: I read in THE TRIBUNE where you are giving a party to one hundred boys. I have never seen a big league ball game. I have read much about 'Rabbit' Maranville and his Cubs. I would like to see Hartnett knock one of his famous home runs. I have heard much of John McGraw and his wonderful team that won four championships in a row. Something no other team has ever done. I hope I am one of your lucky hundred, as I would give a lot to see a real ball game."

"Dear Sally: A baseball game and the Cubs at that. In the ninth inning with bases filled, tied score, two out and two strikes on the batter. Gee whiz, what a thrill! It's so exciting I can hardly write. And to see all the famous players of the Cubs and Giants. Hartnett, Charley Grimm, 'Mandy' Brooks, the hard hitting center fielder. To see the men that put the Giants where they are—George Kelly, Manager McGraw, Frankie Frisch, and their famous pitching staff. For a long time I've been wishing to see a game between the Cubs and Giants."

"Dear Sally: O gee—here's hoping I will be one of the lucky boys to go with you to see the Cubs try to beat the Giants. It sure would be fine to see two of the best teams clash together. We baseball fans should get plenty of thrills, as the Giants are now leading in the league. But the Cubs will lead them a merry race, as they have some splendid pitchers, such as Alex and Kaufman. Let's all root hard for the Cubs and beat the Giants, to help make the pennant safe for Pittsburgh."

"WALTER G."

Reducing at Rate of 2 Pounds a Week Is Wisest Method

by Antoinette Donnelly

A number of women write me complaining about wrinkles under the eyes, "wattles" under the chin, and baggy skin on the cheeks, after a strenuous reducing course in which they have brought their weight down fifteen or twenty pounds. These women invariably have reduced quickly. They made up their minds one evening that they were going to be different women by ever so many pounds a couple of weeks hence. They were and they are. But the wrinkles and the bagginess were not on the original program.

Reducing at the rate of about two to two and a half pounds a week is the wisest way to go about recovering that wedding dress figure. A quick reduction of many pounds by the older woman is not advisable. The elasticity of the skin of the younger woman, say one around twenty-five, will allow for a considerable reduction in weight without incurring the neck and facial disadvantages the older woman suffers. There is a natural loss of elasticity in the skin as one ages. You know they say you can tell a woman's age by the way the skin on the back of the hand responds when you draw it up in a little bunch. If it goes back in place quickly, you're young. If it remains its original shape slowly, you're not so young as you used to be.

Wrinkles happen on the older face because of a lessening of the tenseness of the skin, which results in its fitting less snugly over the underlying structure. They occur, too, with the disappearance of the subcutaneous fat, the cushion of fat just beneath the skin which fills it out.

Now, with the gradual reducing you must massage the face and the neck with regular morning and evening persistency to prevent this sagging. There is nothing gained if you succeed, in looking better in your clothes, but worse in your face. The massaging will tone up the skin. After the massaging with a skin food is done, rub ice over the face and neck. This is an excellent preventive of the "bags" and "wattles."

MEN'S FASHIONS

BY A. T. GALLICO.
Blue Suit Ensembles.
On Board S. S. Aquitania.—Special Correspondence.—One morning as I walked the decks, all ocean travelers will do, if they are able, I decided to concentrate upon the smart effects I could find with dark blue suits as a foundation, so my readers who have this problem to deal with will have the benefit of a few suggestions furnished by the well dressed men who are taking their smart dressing for a European trip.

Here is one of the blue suit combinations. The suit had a faint light stripe of light blue. The shirt was blue madras, with self collar, and the tie dark blue with white polka dots. This is one of the most obvious schemes with a blue suit, of course, but it is always neat and attractive. A smart touch with the blue suit and polka dot bow tie is to have the shirt of some contrasting color, or if the shirt is blue or white, let there be a colored handkerchief in the breast pocket to give a contrasting note of color.

Another combination with dark blue suit, this time a plain blue, was a shirt of lavender with white stripes, and a four in hand of green, blue, and purple. Lavender, by the way, is a popular color this summer, in both shirts and neckwear, and is always a safe and good looking combining color for a dark blue suit.

The colors most used with the blue suit on this tour of observation I made were dark green, shades of blue, red, yellow, gray, and lavender. This doesn't leave many colors in the rainbow, I admit.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MISS G: TO DISSOLVE THE scales on the eyelids use a solution of one teaspoon of bicarbonate of soda dissolved in a glass of water. Apply with a bit of clean absorbent cotton.

HILDA: YES, FRUIT ACIDS ARE good helpful in cleaning the tongue, and a weak solution of vinegar may be used. Cleanse the tongue with a tooth brush and tooth paste or powder, being careful not to touch the roof of the mouth, to avoid gagging.

OLLIE: THERE ARE A NUMBER of good creams on the market. I can't make any recommendations, but when you find one which agrees with your skin, stick to it, instead of giving them all a trial, as you suggest. I have a formula for both a skin food and a cleansing cream, which you may have filled at any drug store. If you wish, send along a stamped addressed envelope.

JANE L: IF YOU WISH TO improve the condition of your hair you must give it the same attention whether it is bobbed or not. Bobbing will not do it, but you may find the less hair you have the easier it is to care for. Brush it every morning and night for five minutes. This will keep the scalp in a healthy condition and free from dandruff.

Green Apple Sauce.

In mentioning green apples, we may first think of the apple pie, so let us mention that one pound and a half of apples, after they are peeled and sliced and cut in about eighth sliced pieces, are none too much for a pie a little more than eight inches in diameter, and you may heap up more in it if you can. Even less than this looks like a heap when in the pie plate, but the heap cooks down to half or less. A thin apple pie is not much.

By the way, a quart of apples cut fine as mentioned will weigh about a pound and a quarter, so if you have not the scales, as you should have if you are the least bit devoted to the technique of cooking, you can get the right weight by using your quart measure. And when it comes to making your pie, do have the edge of the crust thin if you wish it to be really edible.

In making the green apple sauce, which is so invigorating if correctly made and so insipid and unlovely if it does not cook up to a nice puree, as it will when closely covered and over a bit of fire, wash the green apples, peel, cut in quarters, and these quarters in about three pieces to hasten the cooking, barely cover with hot water in a sauce pan with a perfectly flat bottom—use cold water if cooking only a few, because it boils so quickly—cover sauce pan and let them gently rest vigorously, too, cook until they are almost all even puree, sweeten, and serve hot or cold. Add no seasonings except sugar. To make an exceedingly smooth puree sieve the apple.

To make a mint jelly to serve with the summer roast lamb, hot or cold, wash, but do not peel the apples, then cut them fine so that they will cook in five minutes, if not wilted. For each four rather unripe apples use four sprigs of mint, and put this with the apple just covered with water and the saucepan covered. When cooked put into jelly bag, let the juice drip out, and cook it a few minutes before adding measure for measure of sugar to it, dissolving it thoroughly. Cook and skim until it gives the jelly test. Drop a well washed tip of mint in each glass. Use up promptly.

Little 3 year old Billy was out riding with some friends.

He became tired and sleepy and got down off the seat and sat on the floor of the car, putting his head on the seat.

"Why, what is wrong, Billy?" asked Mrs. Joyce.

"O, nothing, Mrs. Joyce, only my head went to sleep," answered Billy.

Seeing me moving some chairs about in readiness for the assembly in Sunday school, a little 4 year old tot proceeded to be helpful by doing the same. Since she was quite noisy, I said, "Sh, don't make so much noise," whereupon she came close to me and asked with the most charming innocence, "What's the matter, is the baby sleeping?"

Help for a Shut-In.

"I am a shut-in, 86 years old, and quit the tops of comforters to help keep things going. I have an order for a comfort top now, but have not pieces enough to finish it. If any of your readers have pieces which they care to send me, I shall be most grateful to them."

Who is going to help this ambitious old lady finish her quilt by a donation of pieces?

Student Needs Help.

"May I enter an appeal through your column? I am a girl, 16, and am planning to go to business college this fall, working my way through. The only drawback is my clothing. I do not have sufficient funds to buy the proper clothing, and still know I must have a few decent articles to start out with. I am especially in need of dresses, size 34-36, and would appreciate anything sent."

ANDREWS MADE PROHIBITION CZAR BY PRESIDENT

Leave Him Alone, Tip to Meddling Politicians.

On such articles is the method proposed for reducing their cost.

Mr. Coolidge, it was stated, knows of no reason why the shipping board should not sell surplus ships for junking. He is said to realize that there may be a legal provision of which he knows nothing that might prevent the sale of the ships. While the board's powers are limited by the merchant marine act, he knows of no reason why the board cannot accept Henry Ford's bid, or that of anybody else, for the 200 vessels now consigned to the junk pile.

In regard to the quarrel in the aircraft industry Mr. Coolidge intends to proceed on a hands off basis, believing federal interference just now would be premature and likely to prevent an agreement. He does not believe there will be a strike on September 1 and neither he nor his subordinates will discuss the situation.

Talk of Cleaning House.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—(Special.)—A conference held this afternoon between Attorney General Sargent and Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of the prohibition forces, led to the rumor that a wholesale prosecution of prohibition officials is impending.

Coming on the heels of reports from Chicago that the state director of Illinois and several others were facing indictment, and simultaneously with a broadcast of charges launched by Representative John Philip Hill (Rep., Ill.), champion of the wet in the house, the Sargent-Andrews conference was looked on as significant.

Mr. Hill charged that the entire reorganization plan being worked out by the treasury department for the prohibition forces was an effort to clean house in time to forestall a national scandal.

To Avert National Scandal.

"To prevent public attention from being focused on wholesale discharge of agents," he said, "this cunning strategy has been decided upon."

But at the end of the Sargent-Andrews conference it was stated that the subject discussed was merely "closer cooperation" between the department of justice and the treasury in prohibition matters. Whether this meant that the department of justice plans to push prohibition cases more vigorously or go after erring prohibition officials with renewed zeal, it was not disclosed.

Consideration was given, however, to the reports received by the attorney general from forty district attorneys throughout the country, in which various charges of inefficiency, extortion, and conspiracy are disclosed as being against a large percentage of prohibition officials, both state and federal. This list will be checked over by Gen. Andrews in the reorganization work, and those whose names appear on it will be dropped.

Sees Board of Strategy.

Prior to his conference with the attorney general Gen. Andrews held a meeting of his board of strategy, after which he announced he would make a statement tomorrow. This may have to do with changing a few of the boundaries of the new districts, but it is believed it will simply be an announcement that the new program will be delayed until Sept. 1 instead of going into effect on Aug. 1.

Prohibition officials here give little credence to the rumors, indictments in Illinois.

2 Pals of Druggan and Lake Are Held for Murder

Dave Dunn and Charles Sher, alleged pals of Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan in beer running enterprises, were held under bond of $10,000 each at Waukegan yesterday, charged with the murder of "Big Steve" Wianski, a Valley gangster, slain in 1921.

Elmer Does Some Thinking and This Is It

Something's Wrong; but What He Doesn't Know.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

At the close of about sixteen hundred thoughts I have come to the conclusion there must have been something peculiar about things last night. To get going, and the going may be rough and uncertain. At 8:15 a certain pianist at a certain station played "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" in a creditable manner, but at the close, and without stopping, the piano rolled out a rag-time number. Where, O where, is our good taste?

Shortly after I became deeply absorbed in a program at WLS by the Dargemond string trio and E. Oliver Chagman, tenor, and found it a concert of real merit. But I noticed I was continuously checking up on the dial to make sure that it was at WLS. Finally it dawned upon me that this was the same type of program put on at W-G-N by the W-G-N string trio and soloists on their 839 hour.

To W-G-N at 8:45 for their "Bonnie Purple Heather" novelty program. In a few moments I was all absorbed in Scotland's mellow melodies and typical harmonies as presented by the Polly Willie vocal trio. But a bagpipe played at intervals for attention and for some yet to be explained reason Mr. Bagpipe and I got into an argument, and Mr. Bagpipe was vanquished. [That helps the story, any how.]

Thence to WMAQ at 9:30 for three announced piano numbers by Annacore Robert Whitney. Mr. Whitney, wearing up his fingers with a Brahms selection, then plunged headlong, if not head first, into a tremendous reading of Chopin's gigantic Schorzo in C sharp minor. Frankly, the playing of this was simply marvelous—big, colorful, dashing, immense. But an earlier talk delayed the starting of this program, and the final Brahms number was foregone in favor of a dance orchestra, and that's the way that program ended.

(The event of the night was the rendition of Victor Herbert's opera "Sweethearts" at WEBB 9:30, by the recently organized WEBB light opera company. There was a slight delay in getting the curtain up, but from that moment on everything flew—notes, piano, solists, chorus, the entire organization. That made Herbert's happy, melodious song sing and dance with youthful, cheerful, sparkling musical fire. Congratulations! We have a promising organization to look forward to here.)

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

With a large time of short wheat reported covered by a few local operators yesterday it was said at the close that the technical position had been changed. The wheat market was also said at the close that a good deal of buying had absorbed the wheat on the market and that prices were to work higher after each good break.

Wheat traders were disturbed by a statement which was made yesterday that the break in wheat for the first two days of this week was due to short selling. It was taken as indicating the position of the local bears and the fact that this was a measure responsible for part of the buying yesterday. There are intimations that possibly the market of last August the trade may be given figures showing the cost interest each day.

Traders who sold December corn short from 89 to 85c early in the week were free buyers yesterday at 87 to 88c. Commission houses that were buyers on the market were active in taking profits on the bulge to 88c yesterday.

J. E. Carney of National-Fraser Co. called from Chicago. "Wonderful crop of wheat and oats throughout northern France, slight looking as result of recent storm, but not serious. Harvested wheat, Hungary has a record crop and an exportable surplus. Some estimate European import requirements of wheat as low as 8,000,000 bu. per week. Others say 10,000,000."

The crop report of Nat. O. Murray, the Commodity-Curtis statistician attracted attention. It estimated the wheat yield at 860,000,000 bu. or 20,000,000 bu. less than the government figures of July and compared with 873,000,000 bu. harvested last year. It estimated the wheat yield at 860,000,000 bu. or 20,000,000 bu. less than the government figures of July and compared with 873,000,000 bu. harvested last year.

Hard Winters for Export

Development of export business in old crop has been a surprise to the market. In view of the relatively high price demanded for American grain, there were 300,000 bu. of old No. 3 hard sold at Baltimore at a price said to have been 10c over Chicago September, and No. 4 sold at 40,000 bu. It was claimed that there was business in new crop grain, but quantities were not given.

Some sales of springs and Manitoba wheat also made.

Harvest estimated the spring wheat crop at 25,000,000 bu. or 21,000,000 bu. less than the government July 1 returns, confirming the reports of damage from rain and the recent heavy water.

Water was estimated at around 100,000,000 bu., making the total for the country 600,000,000 bu. or only slightly in excess of domestic requirements. A British Free Press report on Canada was expected to be given the next evening.

Evening Up to Corn

Traders who have recently been aggressive on the buying side of corn took profits on a bulge of nearly 20c on the early low point, while the sellers on the recent break were the buyers on the market. The market was expected to show a lack of moisture over a wide area, and the talk of crop deterioration in parts of South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska is increasing. Oats were advanced largely by the action of corn. Trade in rye continues limited and the market is influenced mainly by the action of wheat. A little export business was put through at the seaboard.

A leading packer was quoted as saying that the market for the general trade was limited, and at the close last was unchanged to 1/2c higher with better to lower and the 50c/50c higher. Deliveries on July contracts were 160,000 bu. and 50,000 bu. of wheat.

TO STORY GARAGE AT STATE KINZIE FIRST OF CHARGE

BY AL CHASE

Work is at once on the first of several elaborate downtown garages, a ten story, $150,000 structure, at the southeast corner of State and Kinzie, according to an announcement made last night by Carson, Knickerbocker & Co. of 282 South La Salle. This unit, to be built by Central Chicago Garages, Inc., will house approximately 600 cars. It will have waiting rooms, etc. Robert Derick of Detroit will be architect. These garages will be the first in Chicago of a patented design said to have been successful in other cities. The plan calls for ramps of a grade of only 4 1/2 feet in approximately 200 feet, made possible by staggered floor construction, one-half of the building being on one level.

Associated With Detroit Interest

Central Chicago Garages, Inc. is to be one of a chain of corporations, associated with Detroit Garages, Inc. The Detroit corporation will operate the local units and is closely identified with the executive and corporate structure of the Chicago company.

Mortgage bond issue has been negotiated by the Central Chicago Garages, Inc.

Haylors for Upper West Mich.

Huyler's, a New York corporation, with many other firms in the country, have leased the three-story building at 210 North Michigan from the McCormick estate, for fifteen years at a net rental of $180,000, and will open a branch shop.

The interior will represent a Spanish street scene and all those engaged in serving the public will be attired in Spanish costumes. The new store will open about the middle of September, according to the brokers who closed the deal, W. H. Ames and Alfred Stone, of Willis & Frankenstein.

PLANS FILED TO BUILD RAILROAD CASE COMMENT

BY O. A. MATHER.

With almost no increase in railroad mileage in the United States in the last decade, recent proposals for new railroad construction have attracted unusual interest. Another project came to light yesterday when plans for building a 225 mile line through Alabama, Tennessee, and Kentucky were filed with the interstate commerce commission.

The application was filed by the Florence, Clifton and Paducah Railroad company, a new company incorporated in Alabama. The organizers and officers were listed as residents of Florence, Ala. But inasmuch as the projected line would cost quite a few millions of dollars, railroad and financial circles started guessing as to the real interests behind the plan. Guesses included the Illinois Central, Southern and Louisville and Nashville.

No Estimates of Cost.

The application stated financing of the new line would be accomplished by the sale of bonds, but no estimates of the sale price, given the market, would extend from Florence, Ala., which is adjacent to the great Muscle Shoals power development project, to Paducah, Ky., where there would be connection with several systems, including the Illinois Central, Burlington, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, and Paducah and Louisville.

Eighteen miles would be in Alabama, 10 miles in Tennessee and 60 miles in Kentucky. The application stated that the purpose of constructing the road is to furnish transportation facilities to a district that now is almost entirely without railroads. No indication was given as to whether the new company has any relation or connection with any operating or financing railroad corporation.

Trade Reviews Cheerful.

The week reviews of business and industry again incline to cheerfulness. Dun's Review dwells on the fact that wholesale commodity prices have shown an upward trend for eight consecutive weeks. More than half of this week's increases have occurred in other articles than foodstuffs. Metals and hides have shown notable advances.

SAR BASIN CONSOLIDATED COUNTRIES.

C. W. O., Burlington, Ia.: The Sar Basin Consolidated countries include the entire Sar basin, except the city of Starbuck, which is comprised of 23 incorporated communities with a population of 638,972. The region was formerly part of southwestern Germany. It is administered by the league of nations until 1925. It is receiving $4,000,000 external 7 per cent bonds payable, both in interest and principal, in United States currency. These bonds are a direct obligation of the consolidated countries, as well as a joint and several obligation of each of the seven constituent countries. They are payable from taxes, duties and general revenues. The taxable wealth is reported at over $300,000,000, or seventy-three times the amount of the total funded debt, which is about $7 per capita. The service charges of interest, principal and sinking fund payments for the entire funded debt are less than 4 per cent of the total revenues and expenditures for the preceding fiscal year. The territory has no war debts, reparations payments or liability under the Dawes plan. It has no national debt and no foreign taxes of any nature may be imposed on the territory. The budget has been balanced every year under the league of nations. These bonds are a suitable investment for a business man's spare funds. The New York Curb association has admitted these bonds to the trading list.
